

On Sunday 24th April, ten Oakley Ramblers met up at Overton Hill car park to walk a seven mile route via Overton, Steveton, Deane and Ashe.

It was a warm bright sunny day, with a slight easterly wind, making perfect conditions for walking. Starting off down Berrydown Lane, we passed a large herd of magnificent water buffaloes before finding a stunning early showing of bluebells in Berrydown Copse.

Both Deane and Ashe were looking at their best in the spring sunshine, and despite the dry weather, the river Test at Polhampton was already deep and fast flowing.

The walk finished at the White Hart, Overton. It was a chance to sit down and chat over a drink and Sunday lunch.
